

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:
Thursday, April 6, 2017

CONTACT:
 Mónica Muñoz at 619-807-4808 or munozm@sandiego.gov

Firehouse Museum Listed in the National Register of Historic Places

PIONEER HOOK AND LADDER FEATURES MEMORABILIA AND APPARATUS DATING BACK 125+ YEARS

San Diego – The San Diego Firehouse Museum is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. This is the official list of our nation’s historic places worthy of preservation. This special designation preserves the site where historic advances in firefighting occurred along with preserving museum pieces. There are a total of more than 90 thousand listings on the Register, with nearly three thousand in California.

“Traditions are very important in the fire service,” said Assistant Chief Kevin Ester. “Earning this special designation helps ensure preservation of the museum itself and its historic possessions.”

The SD Firehouse Museum was founded in 1962 and occupies the former home of Fire Station No. 6. A few of the featured museum pieces include: La Jolla’s first fire engine; a horse drawn steamer and a piece of steel from the World Trade Center.

WHAT: News conference

WHO: Chris Ward, Councilmember, District 3
 Kevin Ester, Assistant Chief, SD Fire-Rescue
 Kevin McWalters, President, SD Firehouse Museum
 Michael Colafrancesco, Executive Director, SD Firehouse Museum

WHEN: Friday, April 7, 2017, 10:30 a.m.

WHERE: San Diego Firehouse Museum
 1572 Columbia Street
 San Diego, CA 92101

VISUALS: Historic fire vehicles, apparatus and firefighting tools and photos dating back more than 125 years.

###